DLR Group appoints new Senior Principals and Principals

DLR Group recognizes achievement and leadership of 28 employee-owners

(DLR Group – October 3, 2018) – DLR Group CEO Griff Davenport, FAIA, has announced the appointment of two new senior principals and 26 new principals. These individuals represent the integrated design services of architecture, engineering, planning, and interiors, as well as the disciplines of business development, graphic design, and technology.

"DLR Group is driven by a leadership culture and our new senior principals and principals will be instrumental in fulfilling our promise to elevate the human experience through design," said Davenport. "I'm inspired by the fact that 46 percent of our new principals are women, and one-third of DLR Group's new principals during the past three years have been women. This is indicative of the change in our profession, and within DLR Group, that will bring new voices and innovation into the design industry to meet the needs of clients in our local communities, and around the globe, in the coming years."

The following individuals were recently appointed as DLR Group senior principals and principals. Detailed information for each can be found here.
