Aino Health signs agreement with global customer service company

Aino Health has signed an agreement regarding Aino HealthManager with a global company in customer service. The agreement encompasses more than 450 new licenses for Aino’s SaaS solution HealthManager in Sweden and Norway.

The agreement pertains to a pilot project running for six months within parts of the Swedish and Norwegian operations. After that, there is an option for an extended agreement with a term of two years and an increased number of licenses.

For the client, access to HealthManager means that the company gets a powerful tool and platform for analysing, and in a more automated way, following up on sick leave. The goal is to develop a more proactive work method to decrease sick leave and increase employee commitment.

The company is a customer service specialist with operations worldwide and around 30,000 specialists in customer service for international clients in a number of industries.

“It is gratifying that we have now also signed an agreement with a large international player. This shows that our services meet the demands made by companies in various segments,” says Jyrki Eklund, CEO Aino Health AB.
